The Difference of a Fully Disclosed PBM™

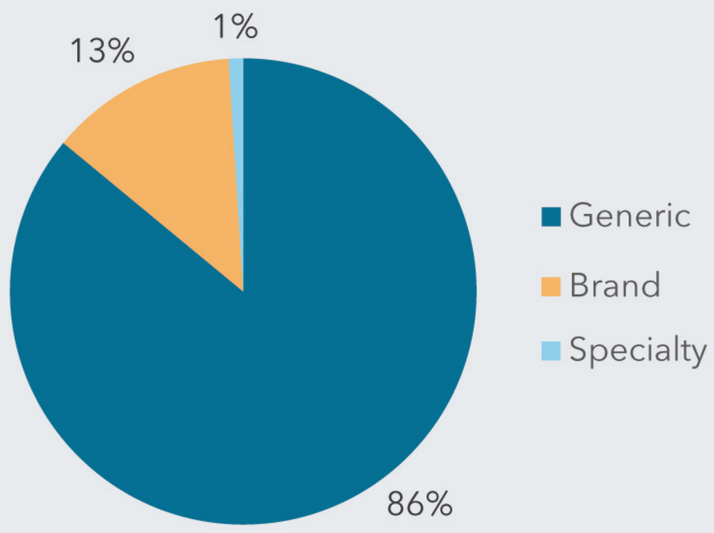

Conflicting Interests

If you were litigating a matter, you would not hire the attorney representing the other side to also represent you. In fact, attorneys are precluded from representing both sides of a legal matter due to ethical rules, because they would not be able to optimize performance for either side.

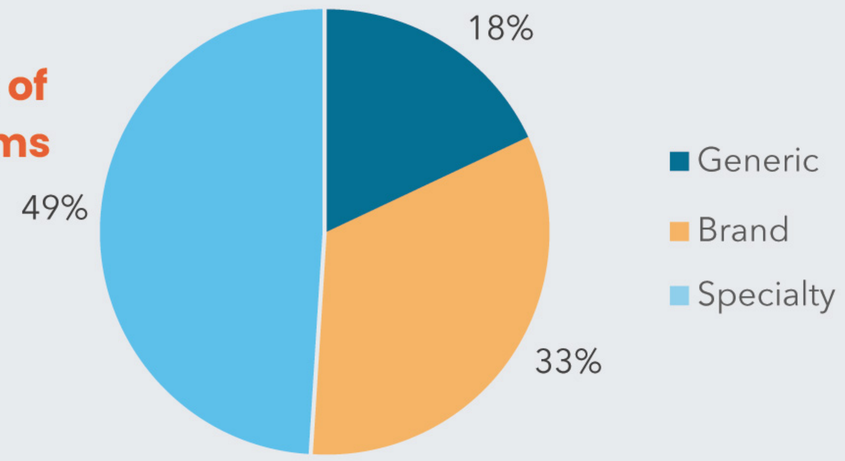

Why, then, do we allow PBMs to operate this way? PBMs represent both sides of every pharmacy transaction, collecting fees from both the supply and demand sidesof the transaction. This leads to conflicts of interest, and increased co sts for self-insured employers.

This problem is exacerbated by the spend on specialty and brand drugs. While generics may make up 86-88% of scripts filled, they make up 20% or less of the cost. That means 12-14% of scripts make up 80% or more of your pharmacy plan costs. This is why a focus on generic utilization cannot deliver meaningful cost savings for your plan.

Number of Claims

Cost of Claims

DisclosedRx takes a new approach, placing us firmly on the side of the employer, like an attorney. We represent our clients, and no one else. This means:

No Shell Games, Ever.

One Source of Revenue

We work for our clients, no-one else-it's in the contract

100% Pass Through Drug Pricing

No spread pricing. You pay what we pay-It's in the contract

100% Pass Through Rebates

No rebates or supply chain credits held back. You get what we get - It's in the contract

One Admin Fee

No confusing fees or shell games - It's in the contract

The core elements of our business model make our decision process easy.

Do what is best for the client in all cases.
